HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, JULY 17, 1889.

On the 23rd of last month we felt constrained to direct public attention to the ludicrous anomaly existing in the administration of the laws of this colony regarding THE wealth of the Roman Catholic Church in der ton of 40 cubic feet. In addition to the right of flying the British flag on the figures, startling for their magnitude, have just extra boat Hongkong is due here on the 17th smaller class of vessels employed in local traffic. In the course of our remarks we commented on the fact that while other the exclusive ends of worship. Speaking of a New York, via usual ports of call and Sucs British colonies (including our near neighbour Singapore) had made special land, which territory has since been greatly | Port Carolins, the next direct steamer, is expected provisions in this respect to meet local requirements-Hongkong, a maritime extent upon this source for its prosperity, worth $600,000; 17 classical colleges, $8,500,000; for London.—The Kaisow arrived here on the ing to the public. had done nothing towards protecting the floating property of British subjects; and asylums, $4 000,000; total, $61,210,000. As to per ton. Quotations are:—Newchwang to quite ignorant of the fact that people were not communicated to the mob; and received with deri- to Lamb was also invented in China, was simulated to bathe there. A policeman strived sive cheers, which caused the mandarinto collapse plicity itself compared with our modern plan of we went the length of stating-"that their nationals on land as well as afloat, Great Britain is alone the solitary exception | the Province of Quebec, and it has been for some | Count of Varmouth, British, 2,154 tons regis | shore within the limits of Victoria. in this part of the world, at all events as represented by Hongkong." It would the next Pope, appear that our views are not by any means singular on this matter, although as yet they have failed to "draw" our apathetic Executive to a proper sense of their responsibilities to the maritime interests of this colony; for in the Times of the 25th May we find the following :-

MERCHANTMEN'S COLOURS. A Bill introduced by the First Lord of the Admiralty declares the red ensign usually worn by merchant ships, without any defacement or modification whatever, to be the proper national colours for all ships and boats belonging to any subject of Her Majesty, except in the case of Her Majesty's ships or any other ship allowed by warrant of the Queen or of the Admiralty to wear any other national colours. A ship belonging to any of the Queen's subjects is required to hoist the proper national colours on a signal being made to her by one of Her Majesty's ships, and also on entering or leaving penalty is to be f. too.

From this, which, after all, is only a renewal of a royal proclamation issued under the seal of Gronge III so long ago [13] as 1801, it would appear that the Imperial Government have become at last alive to | fleet of eight ships is due here to-morrow. the responsibility incurred by pro-scribing, boycotting (or whatever term is most On the night of the 11th instant one of the applicable) vessels owned by British subjects and placing them in the lazarette, or as completely outside the pale of consideration as a leper is ostracised from human society. Sir William des Voeux bears the reputation of carefully protecting the Imperial interests of the mother country, but we cannot congratulate him upon the energy he has shown in this instance in a matter which has special and particular claims on his consideration. However, in spite of the supineness of the Executive of the colony, we are confident that this question will soon be satisfactorily solved, and we would recommend all British subjects interested in the matter to preserve a bold and united front until a satisfactory settlement has been arrived

Perhaps the full absurdity of the existing local law in practically prohibiting smal vessels from flying the national flag will be apparent when it is understood that if the regulations of the Merchant Shipping Act of Great Britain were complied with, and a certificated master, engineer, and mate were articled, there would not be the cubic space or area available for them and the crew, as prescribed by law and sanitary science, if tonnage requirements were to be likewise conformed to. It was recently reported that either a new ordinance or a special amendment to the existing one had been drafted to meet the difficulty suggested in the foregoing remarks, but so far nothing authentic has come to light, and as the Legislative Council is out of session the question is likely to remain shelved for some time to come, unless active steps are taken to remove an unnecessary restriction which has before now proved a grievous hardship.

THE HANKOW RIOT.

A correspondent of the N. C. Daily News says the trouble began on Thursday afternoon, the 1th inst., in this way: - Our Consul had previously been informed that trouble was a-brewing, through the experiences of certain of the Wuchang Missionaries, whose houses and persons had been rather freely handled by some of the students at present up for examination, who had somehow become aware that under the present rigime they. are at liberty to work their will on any unfortunate foreigner who falls into their hands, provided they don't go too far.

being liable to incarceration in the Municipal gaol. When they are apprehended they have to be handed over to a Wei-yuen, who treats them as his own brothers, or sets them immediately at liberty again, as in this case. No freedom than he got together a" score of his friends, and proceeded in search of the native policemen who had so far forgotten themselves as to lay hands on him, to give them a mauling. They found them on their beat on the bund, and thrashed them so severely that one has been laid up ever since. Some foreigners and police came to the rescue, and in the scuffle which followed, one student fell down dead-at least that was the native idea; the opinion of our' medical men that he was only shamming and that there was very little the matter with him. failed to alter the situation.

course, speedily spread, that the police had killed a man, and a crowd began to assemble at the Station. The Consul was soon there, also the doctor, and various native officials, and, as in view of the threatening aspect of affairs, it was thought prudent to have the living body of the dead student removed from there, one of the latter kindly had it carried to his yamen. An excited crowd bung around all the evening; there was much shouting and some stonethrowing, but fortunately the riot was staved off for the night, which passed quietly. On Friday our student was to have been brought down again for the trial of his case at the Consulate, but was not. Instead there came a great crowd which took possession of the bund and amused itself by demonstrating against the police station at intervals. With Chinking fresh in memory it is hardly necessary to state that all presided, and among those present were the the responsible concession authorities took steps to preserve the peace. Our Consul, as in duty bound, called for his writer and dictated a despatch to the Taotai, who immediately started with the speed of an arrow for Wuchang -some say to be out of the way, others think he might have had business there. It is said too that the Consul sent a message to the Viceroy and even took the extreme and desperate step of writing to Sir John Walsham at Peking. This is not certain, but there is not the least doubt that he took every step and exhausted every means which are now-a-days permitted to a Consul in such an emergency. The Municipal Council was equally active; it was seen at once that something must be done, so the police were withdrawn from the places where the mob was thickest. It was a merciful step, for not a few in the crowd had old scores to settle with them, so the poor fellows had to endure and insults which they no longer dared resent Astheday advanced the glory of Hankow departed. Our beautiful bund was occupied by mixed multitude of coolies, students, and rowdies; the pleasant sidewalk, by the river's brim, hitherto kept clear for the exercise of our citizens and ladies, and the recreation of their amahs and babies, was monopolised by the mob. They occupied all the chairs for sitting or jumping on, they swung in the trees, and made themselves quite at home everywhere. When the hour arrived at which Hankow takes its "constitutional" no one put in an appearance; the dignified Consular or Customs officials, the brisk teamen, and the knowing brokers were all alike absent, fact which the mob was quick to note and comment on. Such remarks as "the foreign devils are down from their high horse to-day," " look at the rats peeping out of their holes," were to be heard on every hand. The native authorities had sent down a few scores of red-capped yamen men to assist in keeping the peace, but these were chiefly occupied in enjoying the fun, or in helping it on. After dark, things for a while looked: serious; it seemed as if at last the Hankow riot was about to begin in earnest. At the Police Station the half bricks were more thickly thrown, several foreigners, including his worship the or two of stout resolute fellows, each with a over, and there were signs that they might so' There are plenty of natives who would faithfully case the mandarin in charge declared he would hand. On the other side an advance had also been made by sticking up placards in the native streets, one of which says "Men of our great country I the useless civil and military officials are all of them Englishmen's brats, and two cannon are placed at the mouth of the street to shoot the flowery people.

A knowing man's announcement.". There has been plenty of stir all day, but the evening has come and nothing been done yet in the way of burning houses or killing people. The conviction is beginning to gain ground that, in spite of all the getting up, the riot won't take place. A splendid chance has been entirely wasted. The rioters had all they could have wished—a cry which has answered elsewhere; native officials whose dilatoriness was sure; and sympathy probable; foreign officials who, be they as wise and as energetic as they may, have absolutely nothing effective which they can do, and a body of foreign residents who had no desire for fighting." At present the mob has retired. Its place has been taken by native soldiers, whose tents and banners make our bund look like a fair. Hankow smiles and promenades up and down its side. walk once more, and will soon forget its fears, but a lesson has been read to those who have the cars to bear it. 😬 Hankow, July 8th.

Up to date peace has been preserved. Both yesterday and to-day there were sundry " nlarms and excursions" in the neighbourhood of the police station, but like the great riot itself, they fortunately came to nothing. Our garrison of Finding perhaps that there was but little fun | upwards of a hundred Hanyang "braves " have and less glory to be got by missionary beating in settled themselves down at the upper end of the Wuchang, a few Sung Yang students crossed bund as if they had come to stay. Confidence is not yet quite restored amongst us, but almost so. Some folks still keep sampans ready at the edge of the bund for their escape to sooner, however, did our student regain his the steamer Petersburg while others pass the night in house-boats on the river, which, however, may be because the air is fresher there. It is to be noted, too, that our missionary friends did not consider it expedient to open "The Rest" for the usual Sunday evening service; notwithstanding that three tents with thirty soldiers, and five-and-twenty stand of ancient muskets, had been planted before the door. Apparently they had but little confidence in the arm of flesh, or in any other. A little further along the street the Junior Club, less timid, was open for billiards and bowling as usual, but was not receiving the usual Sunday evening amount That was how it all began. The news, of of patronage. Matters will probably continue much as they are until the gunboat arrives, which, we hear, will be about the middle of the week. As to the student, the originator of the uproar, nothing definite is known; but it is expected an investigation will be held when the gunboat comes. The native town is full of rumours; most of them absurd enough. Amongst the commonest are :- The Chinese at present visit the Concession at the risk of their lives. and that a regiment of soldiers has been stationed their to protect the natives from the foreigners That the Viceroy is just waiting to see if the student dies or not; and if he does, he will demand the heads of several foreigners, beginning with our worthy Lord Mayor ! | Also that the foreigners have offered Tis. 3,000 to settle the matter, but it has been rejected as ridiculously insufficient.

Amongst other things, this uproar seems to have demonstrated that a riot may arise any day in the Concession, without the residents being in the least to blame, or able to guard against it. Some one has only to get injured, or pretend to, in order to create no end of a disturbance. Also that, when a riot does start, both Consuls and Councillors are but vain things for deliverance. When the means provided for maintaining order at ordinary times proves insufficient, they are as weak as other men, and perhaps more so from their extra responsibility. Also that the day is gone when the gunboat could be regarded as the effectual cure for these native ebullitions. Gunboats cannot be in every port all the time, and when they are gone, then, as the Chinese say, "far-away water is little good for a near-at-hand fire." Besides, it is doubtful if any Consul would feel at liberty nowadays to adopt the vigorous measures of thirty years ago. One has only to note how every serious resort to force on the part of civilisation over barbarism, is condemned by the press of the world, to see that the times have altered. Also that the native officials cannot be depended on for effective help in time. Not till eight-and-forty hours after the trouble here began, did the soldiers put in an appearance in a business-like number. That the Hankow Settlement was not destroyed was due more to the fact that the mob seemed to have no leaders, and no programme beyond waiting to see what was about to happen, than to anything which our protectors did. Must we residents then submit to these invasions; which now threaten to become annual affairs? Must we endure all the anxiety and worry they occasion without even moving till our houses are a-blazing about our cars, and then only to make our escape helter-skelter as best we can? It seems so, and yet there are men enough with pluck enough in this Concession, not only to clear it of a mob and keep it clear, but even; if need were, to return the compliment and raid the native town. To do this requires neither drilling nor fire-arms, the use of which would be as criminal as needless, since these mobs are largely unarmed. Neither generals nor admirals are indispensable, but only a score Lord Mayor, were struck in several places all persuasive Penang lawyer, or lithesome rattan. far forget themselves as to retaliate, in which | back them up, were the matter arranged beforerisk of a broken head. NOTES FROM CHINESE PAPERS,

On 16th July there will an eclipse of the moon visible at Canton, and by order of the Board of Ceremonies the citizens have been notified of the hour and ordered to perform the ceremony called "saving the moon" (by doing their best, with gongs and other noisy instruments, to frighten away the dragon).

We hear that certain tigers, lions, a large bear, and monkeys of various kinds, have been sold by Chiarini's Circus to the gre t garden at Yangtzepon (on the way to Woosung), and that last Saturday the U.S. Consul-General decided the price. It was decided also to engage the services of the lion-tamer, Mr. Frame, on a monthly salary, to take care of these animals.

Wolves appear to have made their appearance in the north-west of Fukien, a province where they were not known before. Several children are reported as having been carried away and enten by these beasts. The people call them wild dogs, but from the description given of their appearance they must be wolves. They are said to rush at people and plant a paw on their shoulder, and on the person attacked looking round they scize him by the throat with their long teeth and strangle him. When they howl, they lower their heads to earth, which gives the howl a hollow and reverberating sound, and at night their cry is taken for that of a tiger.

A friend who has arrived here after an overland journey from Shantung, says :- At Kan-yu Hien, in the Hwai-yan Prefecture, Kiangsu, the distress and hunger are terrible, as bad as in Shantung, the people even killing and eating passing strangers. One day's journey southwest of Hai-chow, he saw 200 or 300 men wit white flags, armed with muskets and cannon surround a village, and besides levying black mail on all the rice that was forthcoming, tie up the pigs and goats and carry them off. He was so alarmed that he hid all day in some long grass. This marauding was said, however, to be more on account of a clan feud than of hunger.

The row at Hankow had no connection with this movement, but it points the same moral, i e., that at present there are a number of dangerous people about looking out for a chance of fishing in troubled waters, and that our Government must be more than ever on their guard. The first telegrams received from foreign sources were very vague and indfinite. Chinese merchants have now news that there were about 10,000 people, more than half of whom were avowedly "unemployed" tramps and losfers, who announced their intention of "helping the students" but were really on the look-out for chance of pillage. The condition of the people in Honan and Shantung is also such as migh have been expected to produce calamitous result to their neighbours; but we imagine from the docility and submission these rough people are showing that they have really had their consciences deeply stirred by the noble efforts made by their fellow-men to alleviate their sufferings.

It must be confessed that the way these mines were managed before Prefect Li is brought out of the earth is sold immediately came along was anything but reassuring to and on the spot. What has stood in the way of investors; but now we may hope that more successful gold-mining in China is want of confidence will be felt, and that these noble mines may be properly developed.

According to the first clause of the Russian Treaty, the range of hills called the Hing An Ling separates our territory from the Russian, the gold country of Tung Kin Shan lying to the South and that of Si Kin Shan or Moh Ho to the North of that range. The mines under Prefect Li's superintendence are on those mountains, some 70 or 80 // from Moh Ho. All provisions for the mines must be imported overland from Ai-hun (otherwise called Saghalin Via, or " Black River"), a distance of 1,500 # through Moh Ho passing Russian territory on their way. Prefect Li intends to effect a reform in this respect, and partly by the employment of steamers and partly by opening new roads, to render it possible to bring from China everything necessary for the proper working of the mines and the supply of the personnel with provisions, without the aid of

We have before mentioned the petition-box set up by the Provincial Judge of Canton at his Yamen gate. There is an interesting reply endorsed by the Judge on the petition of one Ch'en Chi-kang :-

Ch'en Chi-kang informs me that at. T'ao-kin K'ang (Gold-washer's Ditch.) outside the East Gate of this City, there are very often corpses of infants buried, under, very suspicious circumstances, indicating foul play. I have accordingly sent officers' with him, who discovered and arrested Ch'en A-fah, a man employed in these burials, and several dead bodies of infants. The Pun-yu City Magistrate at my request made an enquiry into the case. Ch'en Afah stated that the corpses were those of children adopted to be reared by the Christian church, who had died from natural causes. An inquest was held which showed that Ch'en Afah's statement of the cause of death was true; there were no wounds or signs of bad treatment, and no mutilations, and the suspicions of the people had therefore entire'y vanished. The petitioner has now voluntarily signed a bond not to put false stories in circulation again, as "this is mischievous thing to do.

The Governor of Kiangsi, Teh Hing, has received at Nan-ch'ang Fu, the capital, a despatch from Foochow stating that there are 7.000 to 8,000 men, members of the Kolao secret society, at Kiu-lung Shan, and also a telegram from the Vicerny at Nanking to the same effect. The Governor has sent Yen Ta-shing, a Lieutenant, to Fukien to get information about this threatening assemblage. As Kiu-lun Shan in the Shan-ch'ang Hien, in the Yen-p'ing Prefecture, Fukien, and as the recent fighting took place in the Shun-ch'ang district, we judge that these Kolaos are is league with the Krangsi and Ting-chow men, who have been lording it on the upper reaches of the Min River lately with a flotilla of 1,000 war-boats, (called "cock-boats from their curved shape), and who have lately sustained such severe punishment at the hands of the large force sent against them by Pien. Viceroy of Fukien and Chekiang, after which twenty of them, who had been made prisoners by the Government troops, were at once decapitated. The Government of Fukien communicated with the neighbouring province, so that measures might be taken to prevent these banditti from dodging into it when hard pressed by the troops of the Foochow Government.

Wang Chi-ch'un, Provincial Judge of Kuangtung, determined to give all who seek for justice a chance of being heard, has had a tall box fixed at his yamen gate, three feet high by four inches broad, with a slit at the top into which any one who likes may drop a petition. The good Judge unlocks it himself night and morning and reads these appeals. On the 23rd June, a stranger from another province, in mourning dress and shoes of sack-cloth, dropped in a petition with such a tragic air that the bystanders curiously enquired what was his grievance, and heard the following story: - Arriving at Canton with his old father and his own family to wait for official employment, he had had to wait so long for it that they all were beginning to die of hunger, and he had been obliged to sell his second younger sister to raise the wind. The who lived in Kiu-ts'ang Lane, paid, it is true, an into the City Magistrate's jail, where he soon died of humiliation and chagrin. The old man's wife also left this world in disgust on 3rd June; and to bury her in style, the filial son, the petitioner, had had to part with his third younger sister,-whose purchasers paid the price like honest people

The Hupao says :- There are gold mines in Manchuria which may give a better account of themselves than any of our coal or iron mines. there is a good market everywhere, and all that method. The Ping-tu gold mines on the Shantung Promontory employ about 10,000 persons, and the working expenses are Tis. 800 a day; but the output daily is only 3 ounces of gold. But we are pleased to chronicle the existence of a very different state of things at the Amur gold mines When Prefect Li assumed the direction six months ago, the working o these mines was commenced with sudden and wonderful energy, and a subsidiary mine was opened at Ho. Here where the gold brigands had worked at their forbidden mines before they were so disastrously scattered by the Chinese Government troops, gold mining is now actively proceeding under the sanction and encouragement of the Government. At first the output was very small, but it has since so increased that during the last ten days of the third moon (20-29th April, 1879) the joint production of both mines was between so and 60 ounces of gold dust. There are from 500 to 600 miners employed, and each is finding now about a tenth of an ounce of gold every day; and it is expected that before many more months there will be 3,000 miners working there, and producing 300 ources | S.E. to N.W., the same as the shocks which | application to the Compradore who is in charge.

civil and military students went wandering about on shore or pleasuring in boats on the river. Now the regulations of the settlement are very strict that the two roads called the Hui-lu and the Ts'ac-p'i are reserved for those who have business there, and idlers who trespass are at once warned off by the police. On 4th July about 5 or 6 p.m., some students ignorant of the regulations were strolling in the Hel-lu by the river, when some Chinese police advanced with truncheons to expelthem. The two parties began to scold each other, and then the police ran at the students and began to beat them. The students being quite unarmed got a humiliating drubbing and went to complain to the deputy, Mr. Tung, who pacified them as well as he could, and promised to represent the matter truthfully to the Taotal and Superintendent of Customs. The next movement was the bringing out of certain cannon by the foreigners. from the Police Station. For two nights, the Chinese civil and military officials were on alert, and on the 6th July, by request of the Thotai, six or eight tents were put up for soldiers of the City garrison in front of the Police Station, and the Han-yang foreign drilled troops guarded he settlement. The Taotai also issued a metrical six-charactered proclamation, promising to have fair erquiry made into any fracas, and warning the people not to attempt to take the law into their own hands.

There is a rumour affoat here that there is an undertaking under way to have the Kelung coal mines rented by a European firm for a certain number of years, and of course, worked under European engineers. That would be a great advantage for all ships visiting Kelung for coals. CHEFOO.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Chefoo, 10th July, 1889. We have just been apprised of the loss of the Customs light-house tender, the schooner Che Ming, on the North-East Promontory, during a heavy gale. She was under the command of Captain Peste. The captain, officers and crew were saved. She dragged both anchors, drove on to the racks and has become a total wreck. The schooner, if I mistake not, was at one time the property of Mr. C. H. Cooper, of Chemulpo | Captain G. 'At the precent time the Kwangchi is in port loading for Wei-ha-wei, with iron, machinery and lead. She is commanded by Captain Kielseth, who, under the direction of the Taotai of this place, has been running her for a few months to ports in the vicinity of famine-stricken districts, carrying thither succour to the poor perishing people. It is probable that the visits of the Kwangchi have been the means of saving thousands of lives. Captain Kiolseth's duty cannot be very pleasant considering he has to run his ship very often to places not indicated on the latest charts. He and his officers, however, seem to be flourishing and as folly as possible under the circumstances. The late rainfall has come in time to save the second crops. Upon the arrival of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha's steamer. Higo Maru to-day, the doctor of the hospital was called on board to attend to two Chinese tooks, who, during the voyage up to Vladivostock, were almost scalded to death while the ship was labouring in a heavy sea. Owing to the skill and care bestowed upon these disabled Celestials by the courteous and energetic purser, Mr. Locke, it was possible to carry them from Vladivostock back to their native land where they are now lying in our hospital.

A very distinct shock of earthquake took place at Taku on the 3rd inst. about 4.10 p.m. The shock was not severe, but sufficient to rattle windows, and cause lamps and pictures to sway to and fro. The direction appeared to be from occurred on the 13th June, 188 '.

On Thursday evening, the "Fourth of A letter from Hankow says :- After the July," the American Board Mission enterbrilliantly illuminated by not less than three hundred Chinese and Japanese lanterns of various colors, and the stars and stripes floated bravely overhead. There was a fine display of Chinese and Japanese fireworks which lasted most of the evening. From the darkness of the other side of the north wall came a continual firing of rockets from a Briton lying in ambushthere, a bombardment which the descendants of the Revolutionary heroes returned with great valour and complete success. The Band was in attendance, and having exhausted at an early hour all the American airs in its repertory, played with an equal amount of vim national airs of every description, concluding, of course, with "America," sometimes erroneously called "God. save the Queen." The party broke up with a hearty hurral for President Harrison. The gentle rains which have watered the province of Chihli during the past fortnight have done incalculable good to the crops. PEKING.

July 25th, 1889.

On the evening of the 19th of June we were refreshed with half an inch of rain. Rain has twice since fallen, in all amounting to about two inches. The wheat crop is said to have been a failure in this region. These welcome rains have apparently saved our millet crops. Our case was getting very desperate; the Emperor was constantly praying for rain and Princes and high nobles were appointed to perform similar duties at various temples in our neighbourhood. Still the heavens were as brass over our heads and the thermometer indicated regularly a good many degrees over the hundred At last, in despair, orders were issued to bring the dragon tablet from a neighbouring town where it appears to be kept, and it was preidicted that rain would follow its entrance into the city. And so it came to pass. In several districts in our immediate neighbourhood there occurred a hurricane with hail on the afternoon of the 19th, causing great destruction to the crops and tearing up trees by the roots or splitting and twisting them. A similar hurricane of wind and dust was felt in the capital about the same time, viz., 3 p.m. Marriages are not of very frequent occurrence at the capital. Occasionally members of the China Inland Mission resort hither to have the knot tied at the British Legation without the formality of waiting five weeks at a port to make marriage possible at a Consulate. Several of our late marriages and would-be unions have not been without trouble, owing to the difference of nationality of the parties seeking to be matrimonially united. Sometimes it is the want of a bap'ismal certificate, sometimes the laws of the country, sometimes it is a difference of religion which creates the difficulty. In consequence of the death of Nang Wan shao, Viceroy of Yunnan and Kweichow, the lately appointed Governor of Hunan, a former Minister of the Foreign Office, has been appointed to the post. Shao Yu-lien, formerly Taotai at Shanghai and latterly Judge in Formosa, and who was spoken of as Minister to London, has been appointed to the Governorship of Hunan.

The Peking Gasette, in referring to the death of Mr. K'ung of the travelling mission in the issue of the 19th of June, mentions Ireland for the first time as one of the countries the deceased had visited. Messrs. Fu and Ku, the two members who proceeded to Japan, America, Cuba, etc. have returned to the East; the former is now in Japan, the latter in Shanghai. The two years' period in which the missions were to investigate will be completed in the autumn.-N. C. Daily
